To Trout Unlimited:

I support the Army Corps of Engineers' alternative to partially remove the four dams on the Lower Snake River to save Snake River salmon from extinction. It is a tragedy that America has allowed the same salmon who managed to survive the Ice Age to be destroyed by man's placement of four 100 foot tall concrete dams.

The Governor of Oregon, over 200 regional scientists, the federal government's own Fish & Wildlife Service, and state fisheries managers of the region have all indicated that bypassing the dams presents the best chance for Snake River salmon recovery. Please register my support with the federal agencies for removal of the four dams on the Lower Snake River.
